I. Introduction

Senate Resolution 263 of 2008 calls on the Legislative Budget and Finance Committee to conduct a study of the funds collected from the fees imposed by the Pennsylvania Construction Code Act.

Objectives

SR 263 is quite specific, so the reader is referred to the resolution (Appendix A) for the study objectives.

Methodology

We obtained the data for this report from the Governor's Center for Local Government Services within the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development; the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors, which is under contract with DCED to operate the Pennsylvania Construction Codes Academy; and the Pennsylvania Housing Research/Resource Center within The Pennsylvania State University, which has entered into a Memorandum of Understanding to provide training and other activities to meet the needs of the construction industry. We did not independently audit the financial data presented in this report.

Acknowledgements

LB&FC staff acknowledges and appreciates the cooperation and assistance provided by the Governor' Center for Local Government Services, the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors, and the Pennsylvania Housing Resource Center.

Important Note

This report was developed by Legislative Budget and Finance Committee staff. The release of this report should not be construed as indicating that the Committee's members endorse all the report's findings and recommendations.

II. Findings

Act 45 of 1999 created a $2 fee to be assessed by municipalities and third-party agencies on each construction or building permit issued. Act 157 of 2006 increased this fee from $2 to $4. The original $2 fee was deposited into the Municipal Code Official Training Account. Act 157, which took effect in January 2007, requires the additional $2 fee to be deposited into the Construction Contractor Training Account.

The information requested in Senate Resolution 263 is presented below.

- A. The amount of money raised throughout the Commonwealth by the $4 fee under section 703 (a) of the Pennsylvania Construction Code Act and the amount deposited into the Municipal Code Official Training Account and the Construction Contractor Training Account.

As shown on Table 1, the total amount collected as of May 31, 2008, was $2,466,136; $1,901,001 (77 percent) of which has been deposited into the Municipal Code Official Training Account and $565,135 (23 percent) of which has been deposited into the Construction Contractor Training Account.

B. The use of the revenue raised by the fee and channeled to the Municipal Code Official Training Account, including:

(i) whether the funds have been spent on training programs, and, if so, how much;

Of the $1,901,001 that has been deposited into the MCOT account, $1,028,254 (54 percent) has been disbursed to the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors (PSATS) to operate the Pennsylvania Construction Codes Academy (PCCA).¹ The remaining $872,747 remains in the DCED-administered MCOT account.² Disbursements from the MCOT account, by year, are shown in Table 1.

The MCOT funds are combined with other monies (e.g., registration fees, Act 222 funding, and Shared Municipal Service Grants) to support the PCCA. Total PCAA funds received and disbursed between July 1, 2003, and June 30, 2008, as reported by PSATS, are shown in Tables 2 and 3.

¹With the introduction of the Uniform Construction Code in 1999, the Pennsylvania Construction Codes Academy was created by the Governor's Center for Local Government Services to address training and certification requirements for construction code officials statewide. The Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors operates the PCCA, with the support of several other sponsoring agencies.

² Interest on this account goes to the General Fund, not the MCOT account.

(ii) whether the funds have been spent to help officials purchase necessary materials for the training programs, and, if so, how much;

To make this calculation, we assumed that the MCOT funds disbursed to PSATS/ PCCA were used to support the training program at the same percentages as shown in Table 3. Using this methodology, $135,125 (11.5 percent) of the $1,175,000 PSATS reports having received from the MCOT allocation would have been used to offset the cost of producing and distributing training materials (including website development and maintenance; developing and printing educational handouts, course catalogs, and training brochures; and mailing costs) for program participants. Because the PCCA does not track the percentage of participants who are municipal officials, it was not possible to estimate the extent to which these funds helped municipal code officials (as opposed to, for example, building contractors) with their training material costs.

(iii) whether the funds have been spent to help officials pay the tuition charged to attend the training programs, and, if so, how much; and

In its fall 2005 course offerings, the PCCA noted it had reduced the rate charged for courses as a result of the $2 per permit training fee. We obtained a list of the PCCA spring 2005 course fees and found that the fees had been reduced significantly. As shown below, these reductions have continued through until at least fall 2008. In general, half-day courses were reduced from $95 to $50, one-day courses from $195 to $95; two-day courses from $295 to $195, and three-day courses from $395 to $295. For example:

	Spring 2005	Fall 2005	Fall 2008
Building Code Official-Examination Only	$100	$ 75	$ 75
Accessibility Essentials	295	195	195
Commercial Building Inspector.....	395	295	295
Residential Electrical.....	295	195	195
Property Maintenance Code.....	150	95	125
Understanding the UCC Appeals Process	95	50	50

Another way to answer the question is that between July 1, 2003, and June 30, 2008, MCOT funds have comprised about 33 percent of the total funds used to support the PCCA. Had these funds not been available to help offset the cost of faculty, faculty travel, and other indirect and indirect administrative costs, tuition charges would have had to been increased to cover these costs. However, because the PCCA charges the same tuition for all participants and does not track the percentage of participants who are municipal code officials (as opposed to, for example, building contractors), it was not possible to estimate the extent to which MCOT funds were used to help municipal officials in particular with their tuition charges.

(iv) whether the funds have been spent on administration, and, if so, how much.

The Department of Community and Economic Development reported that neither it nor any other Commonwealth agency uses any of the MCOT funds for administrative purposes. DCED administrative expenses, as they relate to the MCOT, come from its General Fund General Government Operations appropriation. DCED also develops and administers the Building Code Official training program and certification exam, but MCOT funds are not used for these purposes.

As shown in Table 3, since July 2003, the PCCA has spent $711,504, or 21.9 percent of all disbursements, on administration (staff time and travel) and an additional $483,641, or 14.9 percent of disbursements, on overhead costs, for a total of 36.8 percent. To estimate the amount of MCOT funds spent on administration, we applied these same percentages (21.9 percent on administration and 14.9 percent on overhead) to the total MCOT receipts as reported by PSATS of $1,175,000 which results in $257,325 in MCOT funds being used for PCCA administrative costs and an additional $175,075 in MCOT funds being used for PCCA overhead costs.

C. The use of revenue raised by the fee and channeled to the Construction Contractor Training Account, including:

(i) whether the funds have been spent on training programs, and, if so, how much;

Of the $565,135 that has been collected for the CCTA since January 2007, $522,749 has been disbursed to support projects of the Pennsylvania Housing Research Center. The remaining amount ($42,385) has been retained by the Department of Community and Economic Development as an administrative fee (see Table 1).

Unlike the Pennsylvania Construction Codes Academy, which is reimbursed for expenses incurred, the Pennsylvania Housing Research Center receives its share of the $2 CCTA fee quarterly without needing to submit invoices or receipts. Control over the funds is exerted through the Industry Advisory Council, two seats of which are reserved for representatives of DCED. The Council must approve the PHRC's annual work plan for projects that will be undertaken over the next year.

The PHRC is also required to provide DCED with the annual work plan as well as an annual report summarizing the activities for that year with respect to the CCTA fees.

The CCTA funds are combined with funding from various other public and private sources including, include the U.S. Department of Energy, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, DOW Chemical Company, the Harkin Endowment, and in-kind support by The Pennsylvania State University.

Table 4 below shows the Act 157 deposits and expenses from inception of the fee through June 30, 2008, as reported by the PHRC.

The PHRC reported that 22 percent of the total salaries and a similar proportion of the fringe benefits are not directly attributed to training activities³. All other of the Act 157 expenditures were directly related to training. Accordingly, $62,017 of the Act 157 monies reported in Table 5 would have been spent on training programs.

The PHRC reported that it had not known when the first disbursement of Act 157 funds would occur, and was unsure in January 2008 when the next disbursement would occur. Therefore, the PHRC's plan for the period of January 2008 through June 2008 considered only the funds on hand and did not include any funds that may be received during this period.

³The PHRC notes that its charge under Act 157 encompasses more than just training. Additional activities, which must be approved by the PHRC's Industry Advisory Council, include outreach activities, publications, as well as applied and research activities.

The PHRC's Project Plan July 2008-June 2009 anticipates expenditures of $473,536 from the Act 157 account, leaving an anticipated balance as of June 30, 2009, of $90,435.

(ii) whether the funds have been spent to help trainees purchase the necessary materials for the training programs, and, if so, how much;

As shown in Table 5, the PHRC reports that $77 of the $75,562 in CCTA funds has been spent to help trainees purchase necessary materials for the training program. The PHRC notes that although it incurred over $12,000 of expenses on educational materials (handouts and trainings, builder's briefs, reports, etc.), all but $77 were from other funding sources.

(iii) whether the funds have been spent to help trainees pay the tuition charged to attend the training programs, and, if so, how much; and

The PHRC reports that had the CCTA funds not been available to help offset the cost of faculty, faculty travel, and other program expenses, tuition charges would have had to been increased to cover these costs. PHRC estimates the tuition charges would have had to been increased by approximately $62,017 ($75,562 less 22 percent of the above-mentioned portion of salaries and benefits).

(iv) whether the funds have been spent on administration, and, if so, how much.

As noted above, the Department of Community and Economic Development retains 7.5 percent of CCTA fees ($42,385 as of June 30, 2008) as an administrative fee. PHRC reports that The Pennsylvania State University does not charge PHRC for overhead or indirect costs, and that all Act 157 expenditures cited in Table 5 above were directly related to programmatic activities as directed by the Industry Advisory Council.

E. The number of classes offered throughout this Commonwealth, where they are offered, their frequency and the number of officials and trainees who have attended.

Classes offered through PCCA. In total, between July 2003 and June 2008, the PCCA offered 513 workshops that were attended by a total of 9,497 attendees. A listing of the classes offered through the Pennsylvania Construction Codes Academy, where they were offered, their frequency, and number of officials and trainees who registered and attended is provided in Appendix B.

DCED notes that a significant portion of the current funds that exist within the Municipal Code Official Training Account will be utilized to increase the number of commercial certification courses offered during the upcoming fiscal year in anticipation of the end of the registration or “grandfathering” period for commercial code officials in April of 2009. Additionally, the strategic plan for PCCA outlines the development of a multi-curriculum training academy that would provide an extended educational program to address the statutory requirements for continuing education credits dedicated to current code officials desiring to maintain their certifications. This effort will support the legislative requirement of the Governor’s Center for Local Government Services and PCCA to provide training and technical support regarding UCC matters.

Classes offered through PHRC. Between January 1, 2008, and June 30, 2008, the PHRC offered 21 training classes that were attended by a total of 545 attendees. A listing of the classes offered through the Pennsylvania Housing Resource Center for the period January 1-June 30, 2008, where they were offered, their frequency, and number of officials attended is provided in Appendix C.

In addition to these classes, the PHRC also sponsored or participated in:

- Pennsylvania Housing and Land Development Conference. This, the 16th annual Pennsylvania Housing Conference, was held in Lancaster. The first day of this two-day conference focused on technical issues around the design and construction of houses and was attended by 197 builders, remodelers CTC teachers, building code officials and design professionals. The second day focused on land development issues and was attended by 133 developers, builders, land development engineers, soil scientists, landscape architects, and state and local regulators.
- Webinars. The PHRC hosted two webinar programs (Inspecting Residential Duct Systems). Because the purpose of these programs was primarily to evaluate the technology and software requirements for webinars, participation was limited to about 25 attendees for each program.
- Speaker Service. The PHRC offers a speakers service at no charge to local builders associations and other interested groups. Between October 2007 and June 2008, the PHRD has made eight such presentations to groups ranging from 10 to 75 attendees.
- Conference Presentations. The PHRC made presentations at five conferences during the first six months of 2008, with attendance ranging from 4 to 300 attendees.
- WWW site. The PHRC maintains a web site (www.engr.psu.edu/phrc) to help disseminate information.

- Committee Participation. The PHRC participates in 5 Pennsylvania-based and six national and international focus committees.

F. A calculation of the amount of money collected throughout this Commonwealth since the fee was instituted and the training accounts were created, including an analysis of the increases or decreases of the amount being collected.

Table 1 shows the amount collected since the $2 MCOT and the $2 CCTA fees were enacted. Table 6 shows the number of building permits issued since calendar year 2004.

Source: Developed by LB&FC staff from information provided by DCED

DCED reported that some municipalities have been slow to either collect or remit the MCOT and CCTA fees, and that there is no real enforcement mechanism to ensure the fees are being properly collected and remitted. For the 2,328 “opt-in” municipalities (i.e., the municipalities that agree to administer and enforce the UCC), DCED compares the number of permits the municipality reports issuing, multiplies that number by $4, and compares the result to the check the municipality submits. If the figures do not match, DCED will follow-up with the municipality to resolve the discrepancy.

DCED also will send a letter to municipalities that do not send in any information asking them to send in the permit reporting form, even if they did not issue any permits during the reporting period. DCED reports that, although much improved over the initial period, they still have difficulty receiving responses from about ten percent of the opt-in municipalities. These municipalities are typically small, and DCED attributes most of the difficulty to internal communication issues with municipalities.

Builders and residents in “opt-out” municipalities (where the PA Department of Labor and Industry enforces the UCC) are required to obtain permits from a third-party company. There are 237 such opt-out municipalities. DCED reported that it receives the ACT 157 permit fees from at least some of these companies. However, DCED does not know all the third-party companies that issue permits, so it is possible that some of these companies may not be collecting and/or remitting the $4 fee.

Response to This Report

September 18, 2008

Philip R. Durgin, Executive Director
Legislative Budget and Finance Committee
Room 400, Finance Building
Harrisburg, PA 17105-8737

Re: Senate Resolution 263

Dear Phil,

This letter is to inform you that I have taken the opportunity to review the draft of your report entitled Building Permit Fee Collections and Expenditures conducted pursuant to Senate Resolution 263 of 2008.

I have reviewed the presented information with Mark Fortney of PHRC and both agree that the report has addressed the intent of the Resolution.

The only point of clarification that DCED would like to offer is in reference to the PCCA administrative component of 21.9 percent discussed under II Findings, section B, subsection (iv), page 5, which mentions staff time and travel. This component should be more appropriately described as "program delivery" or personnel costs associated with facilitating the training program.

As always, DCED or PHRC will be more than willing to address any of the findings in further detail or answer any additional questions that may arise concerning this issue.

Sincerely,
